

PA DEP eWell Permitting Training

Thursday, January 29, 2015

The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection and Marcellus Shale Coalition are pleased to offer to all oil and gas industry stakeholders the opportunity to attend an Electronic Well (eWell) Permitting Training.

In an effort to streamline the permitting process, the PA DEP is moving to an electronic well permitting process. This process will benefit both the PA DEP and industry by reducing paper permit forms and expediting the process by submitting permits online.

Prior to the PA DEP eWell Permitting Training, the PA DEP will be hosting a webinar on January 7 to provide an introduction and cover the fundamentals of the eWell permitting process. Participation at this webinar is encouraged, but not required. Please check the PA DEP website frequently for webinar information and details at <http://www.portal.state.pa.us/portal/server.pt/community/webinars/21506>.

The PA DEP eWell Permitting Training on January 29 will provide a practical hands-on experience and a detailed eWell system walk-through utilizing a mock permit. PA DEP and industry representatives will educate attendees on how to submit a well permit electronically while navigating the online system. In addition, the industry and attendees will provide feedback to the PA DEP as they finalize the guidance document for eWell permitting.
